Spotlight Theme: “Time”

Time is priceless—what is the value of a year, a month, an hour, a minute, a second?

The above one is not a question to be asked — it is a reminder to bring attention to the true value of time.

Time Is Priceless

The worth of time is felt most by those who’ve lost it.

A year matters most to a student who failed an exam.

A month matters deeply to a mother expecting her child.

An hour is precious to a worker racing to meet a deadline.

A minute is everything to a passenger who missed the train or flight.

A second means life or death for someone who met with an accident.

A millisecond defines victory for an athlete who missed the gold by a fraction.

- ✓ Every tick of the clock carries a story
- ✓ Every passing moment holds a lesson.
- ✓ Every moment counts once it's gone, it never returns.

➤ To extend this thought try to answer below question:

- ❖ You get ₹84,600 every day, and you have to spend it all—nothing can be saved for tomorrow since you'll get another ₹84,600. How would you spend it?
- Unlike money, time cannot be earned back. Each day gives us 86,400 seconds — how we use them defines the quality of our life. Yet, many people waste theirs in unfulfilling jobs or on distractions that bring neither joy nor growth.
- True worth of time is often revealed through loss or regret — a failed exam, a missed opportunity, a life cut short. Every second counts, especially when it's almost gone.

Key Notes: Understanding the Priceless Value of Time

1. Time is the most valuable resource

- It's free, yet once lost, it can never be regained.
- Money can be earned back — time cannot.

2. The illusion of having enough time

- Buddha said: "The biggest mistake we make is thinking we have time."
- Time is free but priceless —
 - You can't own it, but you can use it.
 - You can't keep it, but you can spend it.
 - Once lost, you can never get it back.

3. 86,400 seconds a day

- How we spend these seconds determines our success and happiness.

4. Time vs. Money

- People trade time for money, yet time is infinitely more valuable.
- You can save or invest money — but not time.

5. True value revealed through loss

- A failed exam, a missed opportunity, or an accident often makes us realize time's worth.
- Every second, minute, or hour can change a life.

6. Relationships and regret

- We often let people or situations waste our time.
- Value your loved ones and moments before they become memories.

7. The inner battle

- Inside each of us are two voices:
 -  Voice of Growth: Uplifts, expands, and pushes us to reach our potential.
 -  Voice of Limitation: Holds us back, promotes laziness, fear, and comfort.
- The voice that wins is the one we choose to listen to and feed every day.

8. Lessons from life and art

- Shakespeare showed that time feels different depending on emotion
 - Time is very slow for those who want.
 - Very fast for those who are scared.
 - Very long for those who are sad.
 - Very short for those who celebrate.
 - But for those who love — time is eternal.
- Our perception of time reflects our state of mind.

9. Live meaningfully

- Time is life — how we use it shapes who we become.

“You are the pilot of your own time — make every second count.”

The Hidden Cost of Time (Average Lifespan: 78 years)
